Liquor store plan backed

Location in residential area protested

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

A liquor store and gasoline station on residential property overcame a major zoning stumbling block last week.

On Thursday, the Planning and Zoning Commission recommended approval of a nonconforming use for Ice House Liquors, 2446 Washington Ave., by a 5-3 vote. The Planning and Zoning Commission is an advisory body only.

The matter will come before the City Council for final consideration Aug. 23. Bob Bell, former assistant fire chief and now a court bailiff, requested the nonconforming use permit for the business, formerly Bell Brothers Service Station at the corner of Washington Avenue and Edwards Street. Although the property is zoned residential, a service station has operated at the location since 1934. The business was "grandfathered" when the city established zoning in the 1950s.

Bell sought and received a liquor license and business license in May after getting the approval of Zoning Administrator Glen Hollis. Hollis ruled that the change from a service station and garage to a gas station and convenience/liquor store — both C-5 commercial uses — was not a significant change in use and did not require a public hearing and review by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The business has been in operation since May.

But Alderman Craig Tarpoff disagreed with Hollis' ruling and appealed to the city attorney staff. Tarpoff cited Clean Craft Cleaners, at the corner of 26th Street and Madison Avenue in the B-1 business district and surrounded by residences, as an example. Using Hollis' interpretation of a change in use, Tarpoff said, the cleaning business — an M-2 manufacturing use — could change ownership and a light metal foundry could be established at the location.

The attorneys agreed with Tarpoff. Commissioners voting in favor of the permit cited the fact that Bell went through all the proper procedures, had been given approval and had invested a considerable amount of money before being called to a hearing.

Residents and aldermen objecting to the proposed use cited increased pedestrian and vehicular traffic, late night loitering, decreasing property values, vandalism since the business opened, and late hours of operation.

The business is open from 6 a.m. to midnight Monday through Saturday and noon to midnight on Sunday.

Barb Allison lives next door to the business.

Youth Center gets boost

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

If the first meeting is any indication, the Mayor's Youth Center plan will be a success.

The first organizational meeting for the proposed youth center was attended Wednesday night by about 40 interested parents, police officers, firefighters and others representing various civic and church groups.

Mayor Ron Selph, who is spearheading the teen center idea, called the meeting to begin planning for the project.

The agenda included beginning the selection process for a board of directors for the not-for-profit corporation, developing a plan to raise funds to purchase and support a facility, and discussing ideas regarding where the facility would be, who could attend, whether a membership fee should be assessed and other logistical details.

One of those in attendance, Dr. Al Trijan, a Granite City dentist and owner of the former Renaissance Racquet ball and Fitness Center, hinted that he is willing to make the 16,000-square-foot building, located on 1.5 acres in the north part of Granite City, available.

"I've told the mayor that, with the tax-exempt status, I will probably make an offer he can't refuse," Trijan told the group Wednesday evening.

"I think there is a tremendous need and feel that wherever the center is located — even if it is a pole barn in the middle of a corn field — the people will respond," Trijan said.

The former fitness center building is a far cry from a pole barn. The two-story facility initially consisted of several racquetball courts, a second-story overlook area and locker rooms. Dur

Festival plans being finalized

The Granite City Drug Free by 2000 Task Force is finalizing plans for Family Festival '94, to be held on Saturday, Sept. 10.

The Task Force met in July and August at the Elks Lodge. Among the events scheduled are: game, food and information booths; an essay contest; a poster contest and a coloring contest; live entertainment; and, of course, a parade.

The festival will be held rain or shine in or around the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

Kim Afoller, Frohardt Elementary Parent-Teacher Association vice president, chair of the committee to select the parade grand marshal, announced that Wheeler the Clown, also known as Bruce Martin, fourth-grade teacher at Frohardt, has been selected as marshal.

Martin, a popular favorite of kids and adults alike, has been Wheeler for the Shriners for six years. Wheeler, who has also visited many classrooms, spreads his particular goodwill and pranks wherever he goes.

"I enjoy it, and it's for the good cause of Shriners' services to the kids, at no cost to them, at 19 orthopedic hospitals and three burn centers in the U.S."

Death penalty sought

Madison County prosecutors say they will seek the death penalty for three murder suspects when they go to trial next month for the execution-style slayings in an Eagle Park trailer court.

Assistant Illinois Attorney General Keith Jensen announced his plans Thursday to seek the death penalty against Michael Coleman, 22, of Venice; Sherrell Towns, 21, of Washington Park; and Remon Williams, 22, of East St. Louis.

Coleman is charged with four counts of first-degree murder; Williams and Towns are each charged with five counts of first-degree murder.

The suspects are accused of shooting four men inside a mobile home Nov. 17 in the Eagle Park area outside of Madison. Towns and Williams are also accused of fatally shooting a neighbor who may have witnessed the shootings.

Coleman and Williams will be tried together before Madison County Associate Judge J. Lawrence Keshner, despite their attorneys' motions for a different judge and seeking separate trials.

IDOT rushing on 270 bridge work

Westbound commuters using the Interstate 270 Chain of Rocks bridge would be well advised to find an alternate route during rush hour Monday morning, an Illinois transportation department official says.

But the afternoon drive home could be smooth sailing if bridge work goes as planned, he added. A broken beam on the I-270 bridge over the Mississippi River will continue to cause traffic backups in the area around the bridge for at least the next few days.

The two westbound lanes of the bridge have been closed since Wednesday evening. A motorist alerted authorities to the bridge's beam problem at about 10 p.m. One of the two eastbound lanes has also been closed.

Dale Klohr, district engineer for the Illinois Department of Transportation, said Friday that crews have been working around the clock to correct the problem, but that all four lanes will not be open until sometime later this week.

Bridge

He said that one westbound lane will be open Monday morning and — hopefully — both eastbound lanes will be open by the Monday afternoon rush.

"I think westbound traffic should still be advised to take an alternate route, at least during rush periods, until we get the second lane open. Otherwise, there will be a lot of congestion," Klorh said.

Westbound I-270 motorists are being rerouted onto Illinois Route 3 to use either the Clark Bridge in Alton or McKinley Bridge in Venice.

After closing the bridge, IDOT brought in structural engineers from Springfield at 2 a.m. Thursday to investigate.

"We've got about a 4-inch drop in the deck" at an expansion joint in the westbound lanes at the Illinois abutment, Klorh said.

IDOT also closed the bridge's right-hand eastbound lane Thursday morning after an ultrasonic inspection. The bridge normally carries 51,000 vehicles a day.

Klorh said he is not certain when the second westbound lane will open.

"We're trying to get a handle on the time element. We're not talking weeks, we're talking days," he said.

The problem stems from two broken steel pins that connect support beams to the underside of the bridge.

"Fortunately, the damaged part is over land and not over water," Klorh said. "We need to put a shoring system from the ground to the beams. Once that's in place, we can raise the beams to the regular elevation and replace all (10) pins in that joint, even the ones that didn't break."

IDOT workers install a structural support system under the westbound lanes of the I-270 bridge.

IDOT workers were busy constructing a structural support system under the bridge Friday. The steel pins, which are 2 inches in diameter, have been ordered.

"These aren't your everyday pins. They know it's a rush order. The pins are being fabricated now," Klorh said.

Once IDOT places supports underneath the expansion joint, one westbound lane will be reopened, Klorh said. Both lanes will be reopened once the pins have been replaced.

"This is something new. We're not sure yet how easily those pins are going to come out," Klorh said.

IDOT has not determined what caused the pins, which were last inspected in 1991, to break. The bridge opened in 1964.

"There are a couple of possibilities," Klorh said.

"It could be a defective pin or we could have had an overload. We've been known to have excessively heavy loads from time to time."

"What we do know for sure is that both pins didn't break at the same time. One broke and then the extra stress on the other pin caused it to break."

IDOT has placed signs on I-255, I-70 and I-270 throughout Metro East and north St. Louis County informing motorists of the closing.

"We are encouraging people in the Route 3 corridor to use the Clark Bridge or McKinley Bridge to get to St. Louis," Klorh said.

Drivers can also use southbound I-255 to hook up with westbound I-55/70 and take it to the Poplar Street Bridge.

Grand jury inquiry into Darr accident delayed

A grand jury inquiry into the role alcohol may have played in a May 31 accident that left Madison County Emergency Management Agency Director Darr critically injured has been postponed a second time to allow investigators more time to conduct interviews and build a case, State's Attorney William Haine said Wednesday.

"We just want to make sure we have all our ducks in a row before we go to the grand jury. There's a lot of legwork to be done on something like this, so we want to make sure there is sufficient time available to do what needs to be done."

Haine said he would not convene a grand jury until Aug. 25 because of additional interviews that need to be done. Originally the jury was to hear evidence Aug. 11 but that was postponed to Aug. 18 before the latest postponement.

As of Wednesday night, attorneys for Darr had not filed formal objections to a subpoena ordering Alton Memorial Hospital to turn over Darr's medical records to the grand jury. Haine said he did not expect objections to be filed in time to block the delivery of the test results Thursday.

Darr was severely injured in a May 31 accident on Homer Adams Parkway after the county-owned van he was driving veered off the road, hit a pole and rolled into a ditch. Darr, 53, suffered broken ribs and a punctured lung.

At least two witnesses are expected to tell the grand jury they smelled alcohol on Darr while they administered first aid.

"There are others we want to interview also, like the (emergency medical technicians) and paramedics who helped out at the scene," Haine said.

Alton police are investigating Officer Henry Moore's handling of the accident.

Plan

"I was never informed that a liquor store was opening next door to my house. This is a residential neighborhood," Allison told the commission.

She said she is concerned about the well being of her 14-month-old grandson when he plays outside.

"I realize Mr. Bell's livelihood is at stake here, but we're not talking about a flower shop. The residents' livelihood is at stake as well," Allison said.

"I don't even think this commission has any jurisdiction over the matter and I am not sure why we are even hearing this," said Planning and Zoning Commission Chairman Butch Peterson.

Peterson, an attorney, said he tried a similar case in the past where permits had been issued and then the zoning was challenged. Peterson, who represented nearby residents in the case, said that the Appellate Court ruled in favor of the petitioner.

"I've followed all the rules and done all the things I am supposed to do (as Bell did), I would expect to get the prize. The man did what he was told he was supposed to do," said Commissioner Brad Eavenson.

"If the city (issues permits) in error, it's too late," Peterson said.

Tarpoff disagreed with Peterson and Eavenson.

"I realize that this is an after-the-fact application, but I would urge you to treat it as if it was not yet open," Tarpoff said.

"Someone who has lived next door to a service station for 30 years may not object to a service station, but a liquor store is another matter," he said.

Bell's attorney, Morgan Scrogins, said that Bell went to City Hall and through all the proper channels before opening the business.

"This commission must do what is in the best interest of the city. It is in the best interest of the city to litigate this?" Scrogins asked.

Several other nearby residents in attendance objected to the proposed use.

John Lerch, of the 2200 block of Edwards Street, asked how and why a construction permit was issued prior to zoning approval.

"Would you want it next door to you?" asked Bob Douglas, who lives just a few doors away from the business.

Bob Shipley, the alderman representing the area and chairman of the City Council's Planning and Zoning Committee, said he is not necessarily opposed to the business, but he has received complaints from residents about the hours of operation, trash strewn about the neighborhood, and cars parked on the sidewalk.

"I just left there and there is a car parked on the sidewalk right now with a 'for sale' sign in the window. If it's a convenience store, it's a convenience store. If it's a car lot it's a car lot," Shipley said.

He also asked Hollis if Bell's original plans, submitted at the time of application, called for new construction and a drive through.

Hollis said he does not recall if the drive-through was included, but said that any construction was supposed to be for aesthetic ics only.

Hollis issued a cease-and-desist order July 4 while Bell was connecting a storage trailer to the side of the building.

Bell has halted construction since that time.

Alderman Sandy Crites said the board would set a precedent with the decision. She said a similar proposal will be brought up soon for the former service station at the corner of Johnson Road and Wabash Avenue.

"I urge you to base your decision solely on the merits of the proposal. You must be consistent," Crites said.

"I thought we had enough convenience stores and liquor places in town," said Alderman Juanita Crawley.

Voting to recommend approval were Peterson, Eavenson, Dennis Ross and Frank Greathouse.

Dave McFarland, Bob Cook and Scott Borger voted against the recommendation.

Brian Pursessy abstained from voting. Under Planning and Zoning Commission rules, an abstention counts as a vote with the majority.

Term limit vote tossed off ballot

The Illinois Supreme Court tossed a legislative term limit referendum off the November ballot, with Justice Moses Harrison of Madison County writing a dissenting opinion.

"Democracy should be permitted to take its course, as the drafters of our Constitution intended," Harrison wrote in his dissent. "To hold that the law mandates a contrary result is a fiction that venerates the power of our incumbent legislators and demeans the intelligence of their constituents."

The court split 4-3 Wednesday along geographic rather than partisan lines in barring the "Eight is Enough" amendment from the November ballot.

Harrison, a Democrat, joined the two other Downstate justices, Republicans Ben Miller of Springfield and James Heiple of Pekin, in dissenting from the decision blocking the referendum.

The four justices in the majority are all from the Chicago area: Michael Blandie, Charles Freeman and Mary Ann Morrow, all Chicago Democrats, and Republican John Nickles.

In an unusual announcement, the high court issued a decision Wednesday blocking the State Board of Elections from putting the term limits amendment on the ballot, but the majority did not issue a formal opinion giving its reasons.

However, the dissenting opinion written by Harrison, of Collinsville, was issued.

He contended that none of the alleged defects of the amendment "warrants the extraordinary measure of barring the matter from the Nov. 8 ballot."

It proposed to limit lawmakers to serving no more than eight years in the Legislature beginning in January.

However, the Chicago Bar Association filed a lawsuit contending the proposal did not fall within the state Constitution's limit that initiative amendments could deal only with the "structural and procedural subjects" of the Legislature.

Harrison said if the arguments accepted by the high court majority prevailed, "there could be almost no instance in which the legislative article (of the Constitution) could legitimately be amended by means of the initiative process."

Schools look for energy savings

Plan may allow district to defer cost of improvements

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

For years, school officials have regulated school temperatures by firing up the boilers to increase heat and opening windows to cool classrooms.

But that decades-old method may no longer be the preferred method. Thanks to legislation that took effect Jan. 1, 1993, school districts may improve the energy efficiency of their buildings and pay for the improvements with the resultant savings.

Granite City school officials are discussing such a possibility with representatives of Honeywell Inc. of St. Louis. Bob Bennett of Honeywell told the school board last week that the company has a program to survey all district buildings, make recommendations to improve energy efficiency and provide financing for purchase of recommended items such as windows, doors, insulation and heating and cooling systems.

Under the program, school districts repay Honeywell for the purchases solely from the money saved by reducing energy costs.

The repayment period can be up to 10 years.

"There is no financial risk to the district. You will be paying for these improvements with money you already have in your budget," Bennett told the board.

Honeywell has done a preliminary audit of Granite City school buildings and determined that the district can probably afford a $1 million to $1.5 million project.

Among the deficiencies found are: severe overheating and no control of temperature; aging, inefficient light fixtures; heating buildings when they are unoccupied; lack of insulation in attics; exposed steam piping; cast iron radiators district-wide; a chiller at Grigsby Junior High School that will be obsolete in 1995 due to Environmental Protection Agency regulations of freon; and original, inefficient boilers at Grigsby and Lake Maryville, Mitchell, Wilson, Frutiger, Worthen and Niedringhaus elementary schools.

Before the district can go ahead with the project, it must request proposals and select a qualified provider.

Several board members said the program appeared to be "too good to be true" and that it would appear Honeywell is offering "something for nothing."

Superintendent Steve Balen said he would like to research the proposal — including speaking with officials at other school districts that have utilized the program — before making a recommendation.

Salvation Army gift envelope in this issue

Sometimes in our daily lives, we have a tendency to look the other way, or possibly just assume that when we see a crisis or know that one exists, someone else will step forward and take care of the problem.

However, the buck must stop somewhere. We can no longer take it for granted that the problem of the less fortunate will disappear. We need to be concerned and ready to stand up for our community. We need to confront the issues of poverty, homelessness, the care of the elderly and children in need. We must approach these problems with an open mind, a generous heart and an extended hand. We just can't continue to say, "I helped last year" or "someone else will do it." Human beings in need deserve better. The Salvation Army — along with your love and financial support — will continue to fight the never-ending battle of poverty. It may never be able to cure the problem, but it will help relieve

MATERIALS NEEDED:

- Two or three packages of Creative Twist CT®
- 7 1/2" x 1 1/4" foam disc
- Two packages wood floral picks with wire
- One package vanilla souffle potpourri
- One package florafence strawflowers - white
- One bunch strawflowers - yellow/white
- One bunch peppercorn - green natural
- Tacky glue
- Hot melt glue and glue gun
- One piece of 18-ga. floral wire

* Model shown was done with two packages yellow and one package straw CT. If desired, flower can be made all in yellow, then only two packages of yellow CT are required.

Step 1: Unwrap foam disc. Fold the piece of 18-ga. wire in half and push through disc, forming a hanging loop on one side of the disc. Spread tacky glue over one side of the disc, press in the potpourri and allow to dry.

Step 2: Open all of the CT. For back row of petals, cut yellow CT into lengths 7/8" to 8/8". Cut pieces into long petal shapes, cutting top edge to a point and the bottom edge is straight across, with curved sides. Gather bottom edge and attach a wood pick. Dip end of pick into tacky glue and push into side of the disc. Space petals around edge. This row has 18 petals.

Step 3: Cut pieces for next row. This row is made in same manner, but cut pieces 7/8" to 8" long. Place this row between the last row, but use the wrong side of the CT (lighter side). This row has 10 to 12 petals of yellow CT and the remainder cut from straw CT.

Step 4: For the last row of petals, cut straw CT into lengths from 5" to 6 1/2". Cut 7 to 9 pieces total. This row is added to fill in and is closest to the top edge of the foam disc.

Step 5: Cut wire stems from the straw flowers. Using hot glue, glue a row of strawflowers from the bunch and the package around the edge of the disc. Fill in between wire flowers, cones, leaves and filler from the potpourri. Cut pieces of peppercorn and glue between the strawflowers and the last row of petals added.

Nameoki continues war on mosquitoes

Nameoki Township has begun its eighth round of mosquito spraying. Each round is about 100 miles on township roads, with about 70 miles of actual spraying. All 12 precincts are covered in seven to 10 days.

Spraying is done by a licensed operator with material approved by the state. The spray is harmless to humans and pets.

Township Supervisor Ken Davis said that the spraying program has been well received by township residents.

"The program has been very beneficial. It has allowed families and neighbors to gather outside longer and more often," he said.

"In fact, residents have been so thankful they have offered our equipment operator soda or other refreshment on several occasions," Davis said.

The township has obtained a grant from the Illinois Department of Public Health to provide surveillance and eradication of the Asian Tiger Mosquito. As a public service, the township is also assisting the state department with a search for encephalitis-carrying mosquitoes.

The light traps used for surveillance of the Asian Tiger also trap other vector of mosquitoes, including encephalitis carriers.

An informational flier was recently passed through the township suggesting ways to stop raising mosquitoes in your back yard.

For a copy of the flier, call the township office or Davis and request that one be mailed to you or pick one up at the township office.

County Board members just don't get it

The following editorial is from the Alton Telegraph.

An evenly split vote of Madison County Board members recently over whether to give themselves pay raises and to forgo their traditional mileage reimbursement was something of a breath of fresh air.

But even though half the board members saw a duty to start cutting expenses with themselves, a tie-breaking vote to increase their pay and keep the mileage expense is a reminder that it will take more than a breath of fresh air to overcome the smog that insulates the board from taxpayers.

This is not a debate about whether board members deserve to be paid $9,500 a year, the salary they will get after approving a $1,000-a-year raise at their July 20 meeting. Nor is it a debate about whether they deserve to keep, as they will after that vote, a 25-cent-per-mile reimbursement for trips between home and the county seat in Edwardsville for county business.

The debate, rather, is about board members' responsibilities to their constituents at a time when county finances have become so tight that reserves will likely be tapped just to keep operations going.

In its votes, the County Board tied 12-12 on both the proposal to increase salaries from $8,500 to $9,500 and a suggestion that the 25-cent-per-mile mileage allowance be discontinued. In both cases, the board chairman broke the ties with votes to raise the pay and keep the mileage.

Under state law, the new pay rate, which becomes effective in December 1995, affects only board members newly elected or re-elected to terms of office in the election this coming November.

To be sure, political arguments will be made to explain the votes. The most common argument you will hear is that board members are vastly underpaid and that those who voted against the raises did so only out of fear of voter retaliation at the ballot box, while those who voted for them showed political courage in setting a pay standard that is deserved.

We think most voters know, however, that fear of their retaliation is really the same thing as responsibility and accountability to their wishes. Will the politicians ever learn to admit it?

Owens' position of great concern

TO THE EDITOR:

Republican Congressional candidate Bill Owens' position on Social Security should concern everyone.

Owens is Chair of the Springfield Chapter of the right-wing John Birch Society. The John Birch Society in its official publication, The New American (April 19, 1993) called for the phasing out of Social Security.

In the April 7, 1994 issue of the Illinois Times Owens repeated the John Birch Society line calling for the end of a variety of federal programs, including Social Security.

Clarifying his position on May 21, 1994 and on June 5, 1994 in the State Journal Register of Springfield, Owens explained he favors making Social Security "voluntary" and limiting payments to seniors to the amount of their contributions.

Either of Owens' suggestions would literally shut down the Social Security system as we know it.

Owens' lack of understanding of a program so critically important to millions of senior citizens should alarm every voter.

Trip to Indiana was 'wonderful'

TO THE EDITOR:

We just returned from a Granite City Park District trip to Indiana. Sue Champion of the park district supervised the trip and made the plans and arrangements. There were 45 of us who thought this was the best trip ever.

We all want to thank Sue and her husband, Conrad "Babe" Champion, for their wonderful help and superb planning for our three-day trip. Sue is going to retire and she will definitely be missed by all of her friends of the park district.

Thanks, Sue, for showing us such a good time and for your thoughtfulness in everything.

Supply, demand drive gas prices up

Strong demand, short supplies and an oil workers' strike in Nigeria are boosting gasoline prices in the area.

The price of a gallon of self-service unleaded regular has gone up seven to 10 cents since July 1 and the situation is much the same across the United States, said analyst Mike Right of the AAA Auto Club.

Right said the average price in the Missouri portion of the metropolitan area is $1.13, up from $1.06 on July 1. Many Metro East stations have been charging around $1.17.

"It's due to an increase in crude oil prices," Right said. "Wholesale gasoline prices are more than 60 cents a gallon."

Nationally, average gasoline prices jumped 3.25 cents during the last two weeks, according to the Lundberg Survey. The biweekly survey is based on a review of prices at 10,000 gas stations across the country.

Right said petroleum workers in Nigeria have been on strike for several weeks. The west African nation is the world's 10th largest oil producer.

"They're turning the tap off tighter and tighter," Right said. "When you interrupt supplies, the remaining quantities go up."

Right said demand is up because people are driving more.

"It's the general condition of the economy," he said. "People are less anxious about the future. There are more people employed."

Right said prices now are as high as they have been since early 1991.

"I kind of think we've reached a plateau," he said. "I think they'll stay pretty much where they are for a while, then start to drop. The heavy driving season is winding down."

Slim pickings

Rain, freeze hurt area raspberry crop

Raspberry lovers are finding slim pickings in berry patches this season.

"It's the shortest crop since 1988, but the berries are big and beautiful," said Darrell Craft, owner of Grandpa's Berry Farm on Sand Prairie Road.

Fruit growers blamed a January freeze and heavy rains last fall for the shortage of raspberries this summer. "The roots of berry plants rotted in the wet ground," Craft said.

Raspberry lovers converged on Craft's roadside market last week when the berry season opened. "We'll pick raspberries every day for the next three weeks," Craft said then.

He and his pickers will haul 5,000 pounds of raspberries from the fields this month, way short of the 20,000 pounds in a normal season.

A crew has been sprinkling 50,000 gallons of water a day in the sandy soil in the raspberry patches. "We're irrigating the berries every day," Craft said. "The fields are dry. We need a soaking rain."

Cooler temperatures will boost the ripening raspberries, Craft said. "It'll be ideal weather for growing berries."

He built plastic shade screens in the fields over the raspberries to protect them from the hot sun. "The screens shield the berries from sunburn."

Paul Plummer finished picking raspberries and turned to blackberry fields this week on the Plummer Berry Farm on Illinois Route 3, east of Grafton.

"We'll pick blackberries for about a month," he said. "The berries are juicy and as big as the end of your thumb."

Casinos mounting push to restore complimentary drinks

Some Illinois casino operators are lobbying the state Gaming Board to resume allowing gamblers complimentary alcoholic beverages before Missouri's vote on a proposal to expand gambling in that state's casinos.

"They haven't lobbied me directly, but I'm sure they are in contact with staff," Illinois Gaming Board Director Thomas Johnson said.

Lifting the restriction prior to Missouri's Nov. 8 vote on a proposal to allow games of chance is unlikely because it probably would require a special legislative session to amend the Illinois Gaming Act, sources said. The Legislature begins its fall session Nov. 15.

The board notified all Illinois casinos Aug. 1 that the board's desk-side supervisors would begin enforcing the state law that prohibits retail liquor license holders from giving away liquor. Prior to that, state regulators apparently did not publicly challenge casinos' practice of providing complimentary drinks.

The Alton Belle Casino now charges gamblers $1 per drink; the Casino Queen in East St. Louis charges 50 cents per drink.

Casino operators are not reporting a drop in attendance since the prohibition began, but they are concerned that could change if Missouri voters approve games of chance.

Current Missouri gaming law prohibits games of chance, including slot machines, but allows casinos to give gamblers complimentary drinks. If Missouri casinos get games of chance and Illinois casinos are still required to charge for drinks, the playing field may tilt in favor of Missouri casinos.

"They also have fully dockside if they get slot machines, they will have a big advantage over Illinois," Argosy Gaming Co. Chief Operating Officer H. Steven Norton said. "Hopefully the board looks at what we should do concerning the complimentary drinks before the (Nov. 8) vote. There's plenty of time."

Argosy is not taking a lead role in lobbying the Gaming

Board, Norton said. The company appears to be a winner regard less since it operates a riverboat casino in Riverside, Mo., and has applied for a license to operate a casino on the St. Louis riverfront below the Gateway Arch.

"We're following what other operators are doing. We're not the lead because it's not affecting us like, for instance, the Casino Queen, which has the President (Casino on the Admiral) across the river in St. Louis."

Casino Queen General Manager Craig Travers said, "It might become an important issue (after the Nov. 8 election). I'm assuming it will be discussed at the September Gaming Board meeting and we'll take it from there."

Illinois Liquor Control Commissioner Jack Dorgan said last week the Gaming Board "is taking the lead" in reviewing the situation.

Gaming Board Director Thomas Johnson said Monday he is reviewing state liquor and gaming laws to determine if the gaming law supersedes the liquor law concerning complimentary drinks.

"The Liquor Control Act is a law (the liquor control commissioner) interprets — not us," Johnson said. "We interpret the Gaming Act and there is some ambiguity (in the Gaming Act) as to whether the Liquor Control Act is superseded by the Gaming Act.

"Currently, that is why we have deferred" and are requiring casinos to charge for drinks, Johnson said.

NCAA awaiting

With the school football season underway, the young men's basketball season is also in full swing. But if this season is to be a success, the National College Athletic Association (NCAA) must first register with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to clear the airwaves for its broadcasts. That's all this season's steps at the college level. The NCAA is a voluntary association of schools. It was founded in 1906 and has since then been a major force in college sports. The NCAA is a voluntary association of schools. It was founded in 1906 and has since then been a major force in college sports. The NCAA is a voluntary association of schools. It was founded in 1906 and has since then been a major force in college sports.

OVERVIEW 1994-95 season. High School football is closely at the top of its popularity. Can you imagine a 701 IHSA football game that topped the list? Congrats to the coach who won the 1994 O'Fallon football game. Pieper and his team won a 28-0 victory. EXTRACURRICULAR column. Wayne Valmeyer earned 22-year-old Valmeyer landed beyond the fence. ## NCAA clearinghouse awaiting a resolution

With the start of another high school football season, many of the young men involved in the struggle will have hopes of playing college ball someday.

But if this year's seniors intend to be considered by a National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I or Division II school, they'll have to register with the NCAA Initial Eligibility Clearinghouse.

CREATED IN 1993, the clearinghouse was designed to eliminate duplication of effort for high school counselors who no longer will have to send copies of records to several colleges. It provides a single version of whether a prospective student-athlete is academically eligible as determined by standardized test scores and core courses.

That's all good and well, but this corner, upon experiencing the steps along the path that led to daughter Beth's earning a scholarship to St. Louis U., balked about how the clearinghouse worked.

The paper was simply not reaching the colleges. At a cost of $18, I wondered if the process wasn't a waste of time and money.

The NCAA claims it contributes about $500,000 annually to the clearinghouse, with about 100,000 student-athletes at $18 each aiding the $2.3 million annual cost of running it.

BUT I WASN'T alone in my opposition. Last spring, the Oklahoma Legislature passed a resolution asking Congress to prohibit the NCAA from requiring student-athletes to use the clearinghouse to establish eligibility. Since that May 27 resolution, I've seen nothing regarding a Congressional ruling.

Meanwhile, as athletes prepare for fall sports, it will be wise for any player to check with a counselor if he or she plans to go on to college sports. At this point, you must register with the clearinghouse. It will be interesting to see how the NCAA gets around that $18 fee for some, but not all.

OVERTIME: During the 1994-95 school year, the Illinois High School Association will look closely at expanding the classes of its various sports, other than football.

Can you believe that in the initial mailing of a query of the 761 IHSA member schools about that topic, 214 schools didn't respond? The vote was 547 in favor and 226 against.

Congrats to Dennis Pieper, the McKendree College baseball coach who has eight pitchers in his recruiting class, including O'Fallon lefty Don O'Keefe. Pieper already has indicated he wants O'Keefe in the rotation as a freshman.

EXTRA INNINGS: A recent column mentioned long-ball hitters, but left out mention of Wayne Rohlfing, the former Valmeyer slugger. Rohlfing earned a pro contract as a 22-year-old, when he hit a shot at Valmeyer's Borsch Field that landed high in a tree way beyond the left-center field fence.

A year later, when Wayne was a teammate of Lee Smith in the Class A Midwest League, I got to see the former Belleville Area College outfielder hit a 425-foot blast that was caught in a game in Clinton, Iowa.

FOOTNOTE: This year's Notre Dame football book includes the name of Dan McConnell, a 5-10, 175-pound junior flanker from Alton-Marquette, McConnell, who will wear No. 84 for the Irish, is a non-scholarship player.

From the Irish past: Rusty Lisch, a Belleville West graduate and Notre Dame quarterback in 1976, 1977 and 1978, was drafted by the Cardinals in 1980. Rusty was chosen in the fourth round and was the 16th overall pick.

A year earlier, the 49ers picked a Notre Dame quarterback in the third round as the 82nd selection overall. His name was Joe Montana. (Art Voellinger is the baseball and soccer coach at O'Fallon High School. He writes a twice-weekly column for the Journal.)

Germann joins Lady Warriors as assistant

By Rob Raphael
Correspondent

The Granite City volleyball team has just added a jolt of experience and leadership.

Debbie Germann, assistant coach at tradition-rich Red Bud High School for the past 10 years, was approved for the same position with the Lady Warriors by the District 9 School Board in a meeting Tuesday night.

GCHS head volleyball coach Cindy Gagich said she is excited and pleased to have someone of Germann's experience joining the program.

Germann is a former Division I volleyball player who starred her career at Southern Illinois University-Carbondale and later played at Illinois State.

"I PLAYED AGAINST her in high school, and I coached against her when we were both coaches in the Cahokia Conference, so I know what kind of a player and coach she is," Gagich said.

"I know she meant a lot to the Red Bud program, and it really adds depth to our program," she said.

IHSA schedule change alters postseason

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

For years, qualifying for the Illinois high school football playoffs meant playing a first-round game on Wednesday. If your team won, it had to play again on Saturday.

Along with the final regular-season game, that meant three games in eight days.

That scenario is history, as the Illinois High School Association has eliminated the Wednesday game, which means teams will have a full week to prepare for the first round. As a result, the IHSA moved up the start of preseason practice and the first game of the regular season.

BUT WHILE the Wednesday playoff game is gone, it's not forgotten.

I enjoy the Wednesday-Saturday preparation and all the hype that goes with it," said Dennis West, coach Dick Hood. "The IHSA is overreacting to the pressure brought on by medical associations and other groups (that lobbied for elimination of the Wednesday playoff game), and it buckled under."

"Whatever the IHSA does is fine with me, but I would have been disappointed if we would have had to give up a (regular-season) ballgame to change the playoff schedule. The way they're doing it may not be the best alternative, but it's not the worst, either."

ALTHOUGH COACH Glenn

Schott also enjoyed the old playoff format.

"I liked having that second game (three days after the opening round)," Schott said. "A lot depended on how teams got into it. It was a chance to see how the game was going to be played."

"The percentage increase in injuries from playing two playoff games in four days is one more bit of evidence the principals chose to act on (in voting to eliminate the Wednesday game)."

"The research project was only one of many factors that were used in making their decision. Factors such as extended travel, time away from school and the disruption of the education process caused by midweek games entered into the decision."

ACCORDING TO Sney's report, the highest incidence of injury (.128 per game) was in the Wednesday games of 1993. The lowest rate reported was .238 in the 1991 semifinal round and the 1993 title game.

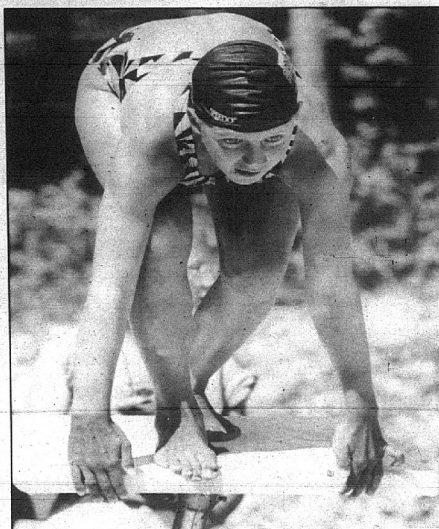

"If by playing the games at a seven-day interval, the injury rate is significantly reduced, the chances of playing an injury-free game are also significantly improved," Sney said.

Sney emphasized that the research was descriptive in nature.

"It only described what was happening in the playoffs," he said. "There was never any attempt to claim a cause-and-effect relationship. There are too many other variables involved that are uncontrollable."

Sney had no objection to starting practice Aug. 10, nearly a week earlier than in the past.

SWISA sweep

Paddlers swimmers end year with second meet title

By Tony Panozzo

The Paddlers swim and dive team completed a SWISA sweep last weekend when it won the swimming portion of the Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association championships.

The SWISA meet, held Aug. 6 in Collinsville at the Gaslight Bath and Tennis Club, ended with Paddlers outscoring second-place Montclair 459-403½. Summersport placed third with a total of 373½ points.

On July 30, the previous Saturday, Paddlers hosted the SWISA dive meet and dominated the competition en route to the meet title. Last weekend's swimming title marked the first time since 1989 that Paddlers won both SWISA meets.

Paddlers swimming coach Celeste Furmanek said it was a perfect end for a team that progressed all summer. Paddlers lost its first two dual meets of the season to Sunset Hills and Wedgewood but finished ahead of both teams at the SWISA meet.

"IT WAS A big surprise," Furmanek said. "We really didn't have our whole team together during the regular season. The kids looked really good this summer, but it was hard to say what was going to happen."

"It was kind of fun at the end. I was very happy. I knew we were going to be in the top three but the kids just kept getting better and better."

Two of the team's youngest swimmers, Justin Schooley and Chris Heintz, set the tone during the meet by dominating the boys 8-and-under age group. Schooley won three races and led a pair of relay teams to victories. He topped his age group in points and won the high point individual award.

Schooley won the 50-yard freestyle, 25 butterfly and 25 backstroke races. He also served as the anchor for the Paddlers' winning 100 medley relay and 100 free relay teams. The five events added up to 35 team points for Paddlers.

Heintz won a high point individual runner-up award. He placed third in the 25 freestyle fourth in the 50 freestyle and fourth in the 25 butterfly.

"THE BOYS REALLY did tremendously," Furmanek said. "I really depended on those two guys to come through. It was fun to see them do well."

(Schooley) is really focused for his age group. He's the nearest kid he's really matured and come around."

Other leading boys were Matt

East assistant's findings used in IHSA vote

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

Starting this season, prep football playoff teams in Illinois will no longer have to play three games in eight days.

Under the old Illinois High School Association advisory teams that qualified for the playoffs would end the regular season on Friday, play a first-round game on Wednesday and, if they won, would play another game on Saturday. The Wednesday game has been eliminated, which pushed up the start of preseason practice to Aug. 10 and moved the season opener to Aug. 26 (see related story).

COACHES HAVE debated whether playing two playoff games in four days increases the chance of injury, but a study by Belleville East's Dennis Sney indicated that it might.

Sney, assistant athletic director and assistant football coach at East, prepared an injury analysis report for the IHSA playoffs from 1990 to 1993.

"We are not talking about wholesale carnage on the playing field," said Sney, in his second year as a research consultant to the IHSA advisory committee on sports medicine after spending two years on the committee. "But it's a chance that will make the game better."

"The percentage increase in injuries from playing two playoff games in four days is one more bit of evidence the principals chose to act on (in voting to eliminate the Wednesday game)."

Summer program helps Sumpter sharpen skills

By Rob Raphael
Correspondent

One of Granite City's young athletes took a big step toward stardom this summer.

Kelly Sumpter, 15, recently returned from a month at one of the most prestigious ice skating training centers in the world.

Sumpter skated in the summer program at the Ice Castle, an international training center in Lake Arrowhead, Calif., near San Bernardino. The Ice Castle is known for consistently turning out world-class athletes from its intensive program.

SUMPTER NOW FITS into that category.

"I did qualify for the Ice Capades, which was a goal of mine before this summer," Sumpter said. "But I am not young still — they don't like to take school-age skaters on tour."

Sumpter, the daughter of Dave and Joyce Sumpter, will be a junior at Granite City High School this fall.

Before the program this summer, Sumpter, who began skating at age 6, said she wanted to learn double jumps and try pairs skating. Now, she is looking for a partner.

"It is extremely difficult to find a male partner, because there really aren't that many men who like the sport enough to stick with it and become good skaters," she says who usually want to skate singles."

She said she was currently training in Greer, Colo., Mo., where she is searching for that partner. She has also trained in Brentwood, Mo.

"THERE IS nowhere really on this side of the river where you can train year-round," she said. "I wish the Wilcox Park rink could be open all year, that would be nice."

themselves up and ready to go. It was a challenge as far as coaching and a challenge for the kids.

If you check with the IHSA, you'll find there is no concrete information that there were more injuries during those first two playoff games than at any other time of the season.
Granite City coach Don Harris agrees. He said the removal of the Wednesday playoff game will not have much of an effect on the number of injuries suffered.
"We don't get as many injuries as we used to because of conditioning and the trainers we have," Harris said. "The people who play football are dedicated."

Gagich said besides the hiring of Germann, the board also approved the addition of a third coaching position in the volleyball program. She said she had been working on adding that post in recent years.

"I have been spending my time divided between the varsity and junior varsity, and unfortunately the J.V. don't get as much attention as they deserve."

"Now we can have someone full-time at each level, and hopefully that will let more girls go out for the sport and add to our

"They just all did real well," Furmanek said.

Several girls stood out as well. In the 15-18 age group, Leslie Neff won a third-place high point individual award. Neff won the 50 freestyle, placed second in the 100 freestyle and third in the 100 butterfly. Another 15-18 swimmer, Karen Yehling, placed third in both the 200 individual medley and 100 butterfly.

Two Paddlers 15-18 girls relay teams raced to victories. In the 200 medley relay, Neff, Yehling, Brooke Bjorkman and Jeanine McMillan combined for a winning time of 2:13.60. Neff, Yehling, Jeanine McMillan and Denise McMillan won the freestyle relay in 1:55.77.

Furmanek said the team improved steadily all season and Masconough coach John Zerjal is trying to look at the issue from both sides.

"As far as eliminating the Wednesday playoff game, I can see why (the IHSA) wants to do it," Zerjal said. "It gives you more recovery time for injuries and you don't have as many problems with travel, especially for bigger schools that may have to go a long way for a game."

"But I've never had any great objections to playing two games in the first week. I always thought if you have a good team, you'll find out really fast whether you'll go anywhere in the playoffs. Having the first two rounds on Wednesday and Saturday narrows the field in a hurry. (The earlier start for practice) really cuts the summer depth as a program."

She added that the school was still looking for a person to fill that void.

"We will have to wait and see who the applicants are before we can begin to narrow down the best candidates for the job," Gagich said.

Gagich said she and Germann had talked to each other quite a bit recently to discuss their volleyball philosophies.

"We both believe you have to start with fundamentals and build from there," Gagich said.

"We both have high expectations of our athletes, and we both demand 100 percent commitment from them, both in practice and came into the SWISA meet after winning its final dual meet against Summersport on July 26.

"That was a confidence builder, and I think that turned the light on to these kids," said Furmanek, who was assisted by Janet Niles. "They just decided it was time to do it."

Furmanek, who has coached at Paddlers for the past 14 years, remembers when the team dominated the SWISA meets year after year. But other teams have become more competitive in recent years.

"The competition is tough and the times are tough," Furmanek said. "But I tried not to put too much pressure on the kids. You have to be able to swim against a high caliber of competition, and I think our kids realized it."

short. We used to finish the regular season around Halloween, but now our last game is Oct. 21. If major league baseball isn't on strike, the World Series could still be going on after most high school football teams have ended their seasons."

Not all coaches, however, object to the revised format.

"Cutting out the Wednesday game is a real good idea," said Freeburg coach Dave Fahrner.

"It's plain common sense. When you reach the level of the playoffs, it's very intense competition and you need a week between games. With a lot of kids having bumps and bruises from the first game, you'll be down on the number of injuries in the second game. You'll have more time to recover."

on the court."

"We seem to agree on court strategies as well," Gagich said. "I think we will complement each other."

Gagich said she hoped Germann could also fit into the GCIS softball program in some way.

"She has a wonderful background in softball also," Gagich said. "I hope she can at some time add her softball experience to GCIS."

"I have known her and respected her for a long time. She is a great person, and a great addition to the teaching ranks as well. I am very happy and very excited."

•Sumpter

She said she liked the facility in California and received expert coaching, but it was not easy. "The elevation at the Castle was about 5,000 feet, so it was hard to catch my breath the first few days," she said. "The thin air would make my legs feel like jello. But I'm in a lot better shape now."

Coaching Sumpter in California was the world-renowned coach Carlo Passi, who has worked with a long list of champions and participated in every Olympics since 1948.

Also on staff were legends Irina Rodina, who won 24 championships in her career, and Frank Carroll, a five-time Olympic coach who is the director of facility.

While at the Ice Castle, Sumpter met Junior World Champion Michelle Kwan, France's Surya Bonaly, who came very close to winning the World Championship this past spring, and Junior World Pairs champions Stephanie Stiegler and Lance Travis, who left the program early to compete in the Goodwill Games in St. Petersburg this month.

"Everyone I met was just great, and I felt like I was getting the best training possible," she said. "Carlo Passi was great. He really made me feel like I was making progress."

She said she was not sure if she would ever want to compete in a national championship or the Olympics.

"I think that would just be too much competition," she said. "I would rather stick with the Ice Capades or Disney on Ice. It's not so competitive, and the pay is pretty good."

Sumpter is one of the youngest skaters to ever qualify for the Ice Capades.

"What's important is that I keep practicing and keep improving," she said.

•Snep

hard to justify the argument that the weather is so hot," Snep said. "Even Florida opened practice on Wednesday."

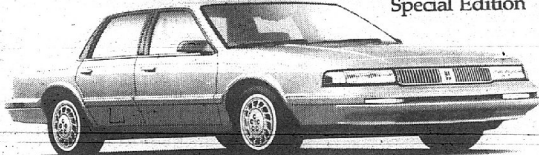

"Ideally, I'd like to move the playoffs into the first week of December, but I doubt that will ever happen because Illinois is quite a basketball state."

Snep plans to continue tracking injuries in the 1994 playoffs.

DRUNK DRIVING DOESN'T JUST KILL DRUNK DRIVERS.

Andrea Harris, killed Aug. 26, 1991 at 6:00pm on El Camino Real, Atascadero, California.

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK.
